

Nursery Rhyme

- "Where are you going to, little M<sup>r</sup> Eddy?"
"Up the Orinoco to catch a new Teddy."
"Where are you going to, little M<sup>r</sup> Swales?"
"Up the Mississippi to catch a few snails."
"And where are you going to, little M<sup>r</sup> Horridge?"
"Up to the heathen to take them some porridge."

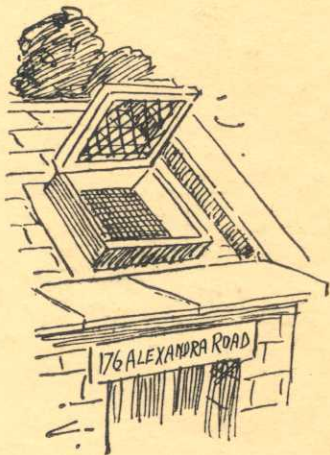

And little M<sup>r</sup> Eddy lost her tippet on the way,
And little M<sup>r</sup> Swales lost her glove;
But little M<sup>r</sup> Horridge got an Easter Egg
From the heathen with their very best love.

So those who complain of the heathen's
ingratitude
For civilized benefits must change their attitude.

Competition

"The usual prizes are offered for the best poem, of not more than 16 lines, mentioning snails, Easter, M<sup>r</sup> Eddy, ingratitude, porridge, a lost glove and the Orinoco."

14.
MAY.
1932.

